JUDGE ANDREWS NAMED.

TO RUN FOR CHIEF JUDGE OF THE COURT OF APPEALS.

UNANIMOUSLY NOMINATED BY THE REPUBLICAN

STATE COMMITTEE-IES HONORED CAREER. Judge Charles Andrews was nominated yesterday by the members of the Republican State Committee for Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals. The nomina-tion will be a surprise to many Republicans, because It was not thought likely that a member of the present court would be named for the place, and because ther Were other candidates whose friends had been Work ing bard for them. When the committee met at the Fifth Avenue Hotel at noon, Senator O'Connor at the other Republicans who had been working for the nomination of E. Martin, of Hinghamton, and John F. Parkhurst, of Bath, who had been doing missionary work in the interest of Judge Rumsey, were certain that their candidate would win on the first or second ballot. The members of the committee present were

The only districts which were not represented were the 1Xth, Xith, Xith and XVth of this city, which are represented respectively by John Collin-John R. Nugent, William N. Hong and Henry Grasse and the district which was represented on the State Committee for so many years by General James W. William Brookfield, the chairman of the Republican State Committee, called the meeting to order. Secre-tary Kenyon called the roll and made the substitutions for the absent members, which are given in the table. Then the chairman announced that the next Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals, to fill the place made vacant by the death of Judge Ruger, and temporarily filled by Judge Earl. While the roll was being called and the preliminary business transacted the friends of the two candidates—Judge Rumsey and Judge Martin—get together and decided this was no time for a contest, and the proposi tion was made to nominate a member of the present court for the place. This was immediately agreed to by both sides. Judge Andrews was known, of course, by reputation, by all of the members of the committee, and they were pleased to unite upon a man whose standing is so high. On the first roll-call there were twenty-seven votes cast for Judge Andrews and three votes for Judge Albert Haight These votes were cast by John B Weber, Mr. Hazel's proxy; John N. Scatcherd and Charles A. Ball, proxy for Mr. Glenn from the XXXIVth District. They were complimentary votes only, and after the aanouncement of the roll-call the nomination was made unanimous,

Mr. Brookfield then announced that there was a watcaney in the XVIth District, caused by the death of General Husted. On the motion of a member of the committee, the vacancy was filled by the election of Colonel Edwin A. McAlpin, the president of the State League of Republican Clubs, by the unanimot vote of the entire committee. Mr. McAlpin lives in Sing Sing, and, if General Husted had lived, he was to nominate him for his twenty-third term in the Assembly from that district. A communication was received from W. F. Thorne, of Albany, who was the Republican candidate for elector from the XXIIId District, saying that owing to business reasons it would not be possible for him to remain on the ticket. On the motion of William Barnes, jr., of Albany, who represents that district in the State Committee, Mr. Thorne's resignation was accepted and Edward A. Durant, jr., of Albany, was put in

Mr. Thorne's place.

After this business had been transacted the mem bers of the committee made reports to the chairman of the committee as to the political outlook in their districts. These reports were of the most encouragfect upon the system, which makes had been expected owing to the fact that the campaign in the state is just now begining to "boom" and every Republican leader is busy at work in his part of the State. Before the president of the State League called upon the various members of the Executive Committee for reports as to the outlook in his district, he made a report in which he showed that the loague clubs in the State now number nearly 2,000 active working clubs. Each club has a membership of from working cross. Each club has a memorrhap of 100 100 to 500 men. Colonel McAlpin told the members of the Executive Committee that the success or failure of the Republicans to carry this State this fall depended largely upon the efforts of the League and the work its members would do between now and election would be largely instrumental in deciding the centest. He advised that special pains be taken in the country districts first to see that the Republicans in the country are registered. He told them not to top there, but to see to it that they came out and voted on election day.

After Colonel McAlpln had made his speech reports were received in turn from the forty-three countles that were represented in the meeting. These reports showed a much better condition of affairs in the country districts than some of the Republican leaders have thought existed. From Broome County came the omise of an increased majority over that of four ars ago. Then it was over 1,900, and this year years ago. Then it was over 1,900, and this year the Republicans promise to give Harrison and Reid not less than 2,000 there. Washington was another county in which are increased majority was promised, several of the representatives of other counties said that the personal house to-house canvass which had been made showed that all the Republicans needed to do to get a much larger vote that they had four years ago was first to see that the vote was registered and then to get it to the polls on election day.

A FINE BANNER RAISED IN MOUNT VERNON. GREAT ENTHUSIASM SHOWN-THE MASS-MEETING

ON MONDAY NIGHT.

A fine Harrison and Reid banner was flung to the breeze at Mouat Vernon last evening, amid great enthusiasm. Large delegations were present from the permanent Republican clubs in Westchester County and from Eye and Mamaroneck. It was the first gathering of the kind in the history of the village, and it augured well for Republican success. Republican wigwam in Mount Vernon had a large dience at the mass meeting on Monday. A. Noel Blakeman presided, and on the platform with him were Major James H. Jenitins, Colonel J. E. Bryant, C. C. Bigelow, M. Bernstein, E. B. Maynard and others. Chairman Blakeman made a few remarks before introducing the first speaker, Wallace Bruce, United States Consul to Edinburgh. Mr. Bruce held issues, and warned his hearers of the disposition of the Democrats to divert the attention of the voters from the real issues.

St. Paul, Oct. 11 .- A dispatch to "The Pioneer Press," from Pierre, S. D., says: Considerable anxiety by felt in regard to the ballots to be printed under the new Australian voting system. While the State will require less than 500,000 ballots, the trouble will be to print them in the allotted time. The law says that they shall be printed in the state, and there are only nine days for the printers to work on them. There are few fast cylinder presses in South Dakota, and the ballots are so large that they can be printed only on large presses. Then, again, there is a short age in the paper supply. One firm in this city has enough to print 500,000 ballots, and it looks as though the were going to force the State to come to terms. Telegrams have been sent all over the State to ascertain the supply, but it is thought that there are no large quantities of paper, except at Pierre.

WARRING DEMOCRATIC FACTIONS IN ALBANY Albany, Oct. 11 (Special).-The fight between the Democratic factions here continues. Last spring one Hill man, Arthur Grant, was elected a member of the City Democratic Committee after a bitter fight. The committee is made up, with this exception, of Herrick Democrats. After hanging fire ever since, a sub-committee to which was referred the Grant election rendered a decision to-night that the geat held by Grant is vacant because his election was not regular. The action taken in unseating Grant has caused bitter feeling on the part of the Hull men, and carries out the declaration made in Chicage that they are not wanted any longer in the Democratic party.

A TOUSSAINT L'OUVERTURE.

THE GENERAL'S LAST DESCENDANT IN FRANCE.

SUSTAINED BY A PENSION FROM THE FRENCE GOVERNMENT-REPORTED DESCENDANTS OF COLUMBUS-ECCENTRICITY END-ING IN SUICIDE.

Geneva, Sept. 1.-Americans who are familiar with the main events of the heroic and tragic life of Toussaint Pouverture, the "Bonaparte of St. Domingo," and liberator of Hayti, may be surprised to hear that his grand-daughter lives to-day in France, in the little village of Soirac. She is now, according to a recent issue of a Paris paper, sixty-nine years old, and dependent upon an annual pension of 1.552 francs paid her by the Government. Unfortuately the details of her personal history are meagre.

Toussaint l'Ouverture, as may be remembered, die in the prison of Joux, near Besancon, April 27, 1803. It is needless here to refer to his career, to his youth as a slave in the family of the Count de Noe, to his part in the revolution of his people, to his proud message to Napoleon: "The first of the blacks to the first of the whites." The cause of his death is still a mystery.

L'Ouverture married Suzanne Simon Baptiste, distant kinswoman, and became the father of two sons, Placide and Isanc. The young men were sent to the College de la Marche, in France, where the records of their sojourn are still to be found in the academical registers. After finishing their education, Isanc remained in France, while Placide, filed with more of his father's spirit, returned to Hayti, to aid in the defence of his country. But his lot was almost as unhappy as that of his famous sire, While Toussaint was languishing in the cells of Joux, Placide was borne away to Fort Belle-Isle-In-Mer, where he remained, it is said, several years. Isaac, unmolested, took up his residence in Bordeaux.

After his release from prison, the elder son, accompanied by his mother, went to live at Agen, where Madame Toussaint l'Ouverture died in 1816.

After the death of their mother the two sons manifested little love for one another. Isanc, the younger, even appealed to the courts to force his elder brother to change his name. He was unsuccessful, however, as he deserved to be.

Placide, despite the assertions of his brother, was received into the best society, and in 1821 married Mile. Josephine de Lacaze, the daughter of Joseph do Lacaze, a nobleman, once an officer in the Royal Guards and Courrent du Parc. For twenty years they fived happily together. Placide dying in 1841. left one daughter, Rose Toussaint l'Ouverture, who, as already mentioned, now lives in the village of solrae. As her uncle Isanc died soon after their father without children, she is the only living descendant of the great Haytian soldier. Mile, Rose's mother followed her husband to the grave many years

Mile. Rose, according to the Paris paper, has never married. She is said to be an interesting, clever voman, worthy of the proud family of her mother and the heroic race to which her father belonged. She will bear to the grave a famous name.

While Europe and the United States are preparing to honor the immortal discoverer of America, Spanish papers say that two descendants of Columbus, Manuel nd Maria Columbo, are at present inmates of the Asylum for the Homeless in the city of Cadiz. Inredible as the story sounds, it is said that years ago, the two old people-who are brother and sister-were discovered begging bread in the streets of the Spansh city. It is claimed that documents in their possession prove their descent.

Investigation will doubtless prove that the Columhis own blood does not flow in their veins. Should Belr claims prove well grounded, however, their days of want will doubtless soon end. The great Nations engaged in the glerification of the world's greatest avigator, would not allow two descendants to remain to promise him not to settle disputes with the sword forever from fighting duels. He was known at Jella as "Amicus Juventutis Academiae." In his crusade fie was wont to buy large quantities of swedies matches and distribute them among the people accustratches and distribute them among the people accepta-comed to use the "light givers" which he so strangely abbured. His cruside cost him considerable mouey. Periodically he was accustomed to sud notices of the death to the newspapers, in order to read their opinion of him in oblituary accounts. At times he travied the report of his death by declaring that he had gone to America, "never to relarm."

But Kort will read no more estimates of his charac-ter, as his body hes at the bottom of a deep lake, the was without friends or family, and the directions as to the disposition of his fortune are awaited with interest.

THE LATE MADAME BOUCICAUT.

Paris letter to The Philadelphia Telegraph.

Until his death, M. Boucicaut remained the selegraphedro of the Bon Marche. His son and only child survived him for three years, at the close of which epoch Madame Boucicaut became, as her husband had been, the owner and manager of the colossal enterprise which her goed sense and her busined talents had done so much to develop.

I do not think that, outside of France, full justice has been done to the character and achievements of this remarkable woman. In her poculiar line she is certainly one of the most extraordinary female figures of our century. Yet in our land, where woman's work and woman's deeds receive such a full meed of attention, one never meets with the name of the Lady of the Bon Marche (as she is generally called since her death by the Parishans in any compilation referring to feminine achievements. Philip Hamerton, in his admirable work entitled "French and English," says of her that she cultivated the art of doing good as though it were an accomplishment. She was alone in the world, for her son and only child, as I have before said, survived her husband just three years, dying in 1880.

His less must have been felt more as a relief than as a pang, even by his mother's great warm heart, for he was stilly, fivolous, and extremely and irrectalmably dissipated. Left with the vast affairs of the gigantic enterprise of which she had been the founder whelly on her hands, she continued their management with unfailing energy and unvarying prosperity as long as she lived. She had the generous idea of associating in the profits of the house the chiefs of the various departments who had given her loyal services and devoted assistance. She forned a company with a capital of $4,000,000, divided into 400 shares at $10,000.

From The Pall Mall Gazette.

From The Pall Mall Gazette.

We told the story yesterday of a literary policeman in Wales. Recently, too, there was the case of the English navvy found reading the Presidential Address of the British Association, and Mr. Bryce's experience on an American railroad will be iresh in our readers' minds. But Ireland is not to be outdone. The current issue of "The Munster Express" reports a homicide case in which a police pensioner was examined. While walking with a farmer's son, the witness volunteered the startling information to the bench that "we were discussing a grammar point as to the difficulty of translating Greek into Hebrew, and Hebrew into Greek!" If some kind correspondent will now send us a similar story relating to Scotland a neat little collection of International anecdotes will be complete.
